ACSA Future Leaders Program Volunteer Coordinator Sought

The American Council of Snowmobile Associations announced today that they are seeking a volunteer coordinator to administer and grow their newly formed ACSA Future Leaders Program. The objective of the program is to grow potential future snowmobile community leaders, while increasing personal knowledge at a national level regarding snowmobiling as a safe, fun and environmentally friendly family sport.

This is a national program that will be targeting two age groups, 21–30-year-old snowmobile enthusiasts known as the Next Gen National Riders and 16–20-year-olds known as the Trail Blazers In Training.

Therefore, if you enjoy working with younger adults, who also are snowmobile enthusiasts, while also mentoring them through a leadership program, this volunteer position is for you. For a more complete volunteer position description and volunteer application please reach out to Christine Jourdain, ACSA Executive Director at cajourdain@aol.com or call (517)-351-4362. Applications are open until December 31st, 2024.

About ACSA: The American Council of Snowmobile Associations, a national organization uniting the snowmobile community was started in 1995. ACSA promotes snowmobiling as a safe, fun and environmentally friendly family sport enjoyed by over one million snowmobilers across the United States.
